

Robyn Watts

has received "Faculty Research Award" RED Instant Awards

Congratulations on your 2021 Faculty of Science and Health Research Award. This award is to recognise your exemplary contribution to dissemination of your research through quality publications and through your positive actions to seek funding for your research. You have been identified by the Charles Sturt Research Productivity Index as our No. 5 most productive Female Researcher and No. 16 most productive Researcher in our Faculty 2021. Your research outputs and performance show dedication to creating and sharing knowledge and contributing to our University purpose of creating a world worth living in. Well done on this achievement and this recognition of your research success. Yours sincerely, Megan Smith from

Megan Smith

13/12/2021

