I don't really understand how does mr. Pawars statement "social work is greater than other professions" stick together with ubuntu philosophy, aren't all the professions equal and necessary...

I learnt something from Prof Pawar Manohar whom I enjoyed his teachings. He defined the essentials of social work in the aspect of Humanity, Dignity and Worth. That is to say treating people with respect, treating people equally and being with the people no matter their color or disabilities. He also concluded by saying ' Social works is greater than other professions, stick together with UBUNTU Philosophy'
