Mediator of these cultures.

At the heart of the challenge, and with wide variance in the people who are participating in and profiting from both of these schools, there is no simple answer to the question of how to create a setting where the programs are more effective. The answer lies in the context of the specific program and the community around it. The programs are part of a complex system of forces, and the success of any one program depends on the context in which it is situated. The programs must be part of a broader system of support and services, and they must be part of a larger community effort to improve the education and well-being of young people.
